P-Solve Adds Two New Directors to U.S. Business

P-Solve is pleased to announce the hiring of two senior consultants for its U.S. solutions business. Kevin Morrison has joined as a Director and Consulting Actuary, while James Walton has joined as an Investment Director.

Kevin will consult with P-Solve's corporate retirement clients on actuarial issues, helping them to make the best possible decisions for their firms. He will also serve as one of the senior leaders of P-Solve's US actuarial practice.

James will consult with P-Solve's institutional investment clients, with a specific focus on investment risk management. In addition, he will play a key role in developing P-Solve's investment strategies and in the development of new investment solutions.

Kevin and James represent a significant investment in P-Solve's U.S. business and will support the firm's growth ambitions in that market.

"We are seeing increased demand from clients for innovative solutions that combine actuarial, investment and risk management thinking," said Ryan McGlothlin, Global Head of Strategic Relationships. "The skills that Kevin and James bring will be very useful in helping our clients to meet their various investment and risk management objectives."

Kevin joined P-Solve from John Hancock Retirement Plan Services, where he was a Consulting Actuary. He started his career at Mercer. Kevin is an Associate of the Society of Actuaries and an Enrolled Actuary. He received a B.A. in Math and Physics from the College of the Holy Cross.

James joined P-Solve from Legal & General, where he most recently managed investment portfolios designed to match long-term liabilities. Previously, James worked for Aon as an asset-liability risk management specialist. He is a qualified actuary and holds a first-class Masters degree in Physics from the University of Oxford.
